Big changes are on the horizon for fundraising organisations with the new General Data Protection Regulation (GDPR) coming into effect in May next year, which represents a substantial change to the UK's existing data protection legislation.

With fundraisers already suffering fines and reputational damage for breaching current rules, it is essential that every organisation is prepared for the new, more stringent rules coming into play.

Fundraising CRM software provider Access thankQ CRM have pulled together a 10 point checklist that every fundraising organisation should consider when addressing GDPR.
